1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

2 Congress finds the following:

- 3 (1) The Government of North Korea has re-
- 4 peatedly violated its commitments to the complete,

1 verifiable, irreversible dismantlement of its nuclear
2 weapons programs, and has willfully violated mul-
3 tiple United Nations Security Council resolutions
4 calling for it to cease its development, testing, and
5 production of weapons of mass destruction.

6 (2) North Korea poses a grave risk for the pro-
7 liferation of nuclear weapons and other weapons of
8 mass destruction.

9 (3) The Government of North Korea has been
10 implicated repeatedly in money laundering and illicit
11 activities, including prohibited arms sales, narcotics
12 trafficking, the counterfeiting of United States cur-
13 rency, and the counterfeiting of intellectual property
14 of United States persons.

15 (4) The Government of North Korea has re-
16 cently and repeatedly sponsored acts of international
17 terrorism, including attempts to assassinate defec-
18 tors and human rights activists; repeated threats of 19 violence against foreign persons, leaders, news-
20 papers, and cities; and the shipment of weapons to 21 Hezbollah and Hamas via Iran.

22 (5) North Korea has unilaterally withdrawn
23 from the 1953 Armistice Agreement that ended the
24 Korean War, and committed unprovoked acts of war
25 against South Korea in 2010 by sinking the warship

1 Cheonan and killing 46 of her crew, and by shelling
2 Yeonpyeong Island, killing four civilians.

3 (6) North Korea maintains a system of brutal
4 political prison camps that contain as many as
5 200,000 men, women, and children, who live in atro-
6 cious living conditions with insufficient food, cloth-
7 ing, and medical care, and under constant fear of
8 torture or arbitrary execution.

9 (7) The Congress reaffirms the purposes estab-
10 lished in the North Korean Human Rights Act of 11 2004 (22 U.S.C. 7802).

12 (8) North Korea has prioritized weapons pro-
13 grams and the procurement of luxury goods, in defi-
14 ance of United Nations Security Council resolutions,
15 and in gross disregard of the needs of its people.

16 (9) Persons, including financial institutions,
17 who engage in transactions with, or provide financial
18 services to, the Government of North Korea and its
19 financial institutions without establishing sufficient
20 financial safeguards against North Korea's use of
21 these transactions to promote proliferation, weapons
22 trafficking, human rights violations, illicit activity,
23 and the purchase of luxury goods, aid and abet
24 North Korea's misuse of the international financial

1 system, and also violate the intent of relevant United
2 Nations Security Council resolutions.

3 (10) The Government of North Korea's conduct
4 poses an imminent threat to the security of the
5 United States and its allies, to the global economy,
6 to the safety of members of the United States armed
7 forces, to the integrity of the global financial system,
8 to the integrity of global nonproliferation programs,
9 and to the people of North Korea.

10 (11) The Congress seeks, through this legisla-
11 tion, to use nonmilitary means to address this emer-
12 gency, to provide diplomatic leverage to negotiate
13 necessary changes in North Korea's conduct, and to 14 ease the suffering of the people of North Korea.

3 (3) WAIVER.—Assistance may be furnished to a

8 SEC. 207. EXCLUSION, WAIVER, AND REMOVAL OF DESIGNA-

16 (1) Activities subject to the reporting require-

7 Convention on Consular Relations, signed April 24,
8 1963, and entered into force on March 19, 1967.

9 (5) Any transaction the exclusive purpose for 10 which is to import fertilizers, pesticides, agricultural

13 ment are not controlled under—

14 (A) the Export Administration Act of 1979
15 (50 U.S.C. App. 2401 et seq.), as continued in 16 effect under the International Emergency Eco-

24 Control and Warfare Elimination Act of 1991
25 (22 U.S.C. 5601 et seq.).

1 (b) WAIVERS.—

2 (1) IN GENERAL.—The President may waive,
3 on a case-by-case basis, and for a period not to ex-
4 ceed one year, the requirement under subsection (a)
5 or (b) of section 104 to designate a person, foreign
6 government, or financial institution, or to impose a 7 sanction or sanctions on the designated person, if
8 the President submits to the appropriate congres-
9 sional committees a written determination that the 10 waiver meets the following requirements:

11 (A) The waiver is vital to the economic or 12 national security interests of the United States.

13 (B) The waiver will advance the purposes
14 set forth in section 4 of the North Korea
15 Human Rights Act of 2004 (22 U.S.C. 7801 et 16 seq.).

17 (C) The waiver is for the benefit of a fi-
18 nancial institution that—

19 (i) has blocked all North Korean
20 property deposited in such financial insti-
21 tution, pending an audit of the origin of 22 such property and the implementation of 23 safeguards to ensure that the property is 24 not used to facilitate any of the activities
25 described in section 104(a); and

1 (ii) is providing good-faith cooperation
2 with the investigation of any of the activi-
3 ties described in section 104(a) or the en-
4 forcement of the provisions of this Act.

5 (D) The waiver is for the benefit of a per-

10 of this Act.

11 (E) The waiver is for the benefit of a per-
12 son, foreign government, or financial institution
13 that provides underwriting, financial, insurance,
14 reinsurance, reflagging, transportation, or fi-
15 nancial messaging services, and who has exer-
16 cised due diligence in establishing and enforcing
17 official policies, procedures, and controls to en-
18 sure that the person, foreign government, or fi-
19 nancial institution (as the case may be) does 20 not facilitate any of the activities described in 21 section 104(a).

22 (F) In the absence of the waiver, the impo-
23 sition of the sanction or sanctions would have 24 a severe and adverse humanitarian impact on 25 the people of North Korea and such impact

1 substantially outweighs the interest of the 2 United States in enforcing the provisions of this 3 Act.

4 (2) GOVERNMENT OF NORTH KOREA.—The
5 President may waive, on a case-by-case basis, and 6 for a period not to exceed one year, the requirement
7 under section 104(c) to designate the Government of 8 North Korea, or to impose a sanction or sanctions
9 on the Government of North Korea, if the President
10 submits to the appropriate congressional committees
11 a written determination that the waiver meets the 12 requirements described in paragraph (1)(F).

13 (c) REMOVAL OF SANCTIONS.—The President may 14 prescribe rules and regulations for the removal of sanc-
15 tions on a person, foreign government, or financial institu-
16 tion that is designated under subsection (a), (b), or (d)
17 of section 104 and the removal of designations of a person,
18 foreign government, or financial institution with respect
19 to such sanctions if the President determines that the des-20 ignated person has verifiably ceased its participation in 21 any of the activities described in section 104(a) and is co-
22 operating with the investigation of such activities and ear-
23 nying out this Act.

24 (d) FINANCIAL SERVICES FOR HUMANITARIAN AND
25 CONSULAR ACTIVITIES.—The President may promulgate

1 regulations, rules, and policies as may be necessary to fa-
 2 cilitate the provision of financial services by a foreign fi-
 3 nancial institution that is not controlled by the Govern-
 4 ment of North Korea in support of the activities subject
 5 to exclusion under this section.

7 MENTS TO DIVEST FROM COMPANIES THAT
8 INVEST IN NORTH KOREA.

9 (a) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-
10 gress that the United States should support the decision
11 of any State or local government that for moral, pruden-
12 tial, or reputational reasons divests from, or prohibits the 13 investment of assets of such State or local government in,
14 a person that engages in investment activities in North
15 Korea, if North Korea is subject to economic sanctions

8 that a State or local government should not adopt
9 a measure under subsection (b) with respect to a 10 person unless such State or local government has 11 made every effort to avoid erroneously targeting 12 such person and has verified that such person en-
13 gages in investment activities in North Korea de-
14 scribed in subsection (c).

15 (e) NOTICE TO DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.—Not

1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

2 Congress finds the following:

3 (1) The Government of North Korea has re-
4 peatedly violated its commitments to the complete,
5 verifiable, irreversible dismantlement of its nuclear
6 weapons programs, and has willfully violated mul-
7 tiple United Nations Security Council resolutions
8 calling for it to cease its development, testing, and
9 production of weapons of mass destruction.

10 (2) North Korea poses a grave risk for the pro-
11 liferation of nuclear weapons and other weapons of 12 mass destruction.

13 (3) The Government of North Korea has been
14 implicated repeatedly in money laundering and illicit
15 activities, including prohibited arms sales, narcotics
16 trafficking, the counterfeiting of United States cur-
17 rency, and the counterfeiting of intellectual property
18 of United States persons.

1 (4) The Government of North Korea has, both
2 historically and recently, repeatedly sponsored acts
3 of international terrorism, including attempts to as-
4 sassinate defectors and human rights activists, re-
5 peated threats of violence against foreign persons,
6 leaders, newspapers, and cities, and the shipment of 7 weapons to terrorists.

8 (5) North Korea has unilaterally withdrawn
9 from the 1953 Armistice Agreement that ended the 10 Korean War, and committed provocations against 11 South Korea in 2010 by sinking the warship
12 Cheonan and killing 46 of her crew, and by shelling
13 Yeonpyeong Island, killing four South Koreans.

14 (6) North Korea maintains a system of brutal
15 political prison camps that contain as many as
16 200,000 men, women, and children, who live in atro-
17 cious living conditions with insufficient food, cloth-
18 ing, and medical care, and under constant fear of
19 torture or arbitrary execution.

20 (7) The Congress reaffirms the purposes of the 21 North Korean Human Rights Act of 2004 contained
22 in section 4 of such Act (22 U.S.C. 7802).

23 (8) North Korea has prioritized weapons pro-
24 grams and the procurement of luxury goods, in defi-

1 ance of United Nations Security Council resolutions,
2 and in gross disregard of the needs of its people.

3 (9) Persons, including financial institutions,
4 who engage in transactions with, or provide financial
5 services to, the Government of North Korea and its
6 financial institutions without establishing sufficient
7 financial safeguards against North Korea's use of
8 these transactions to promote proliferation, weapons
9 trafficking, human rights violations, illicit activity,
10 and the purchase of luxury goods, aid and abet
11 North Korea's misuse of the international financial
12 system, and also violate the intent of relevant United
13 Nations Security Council resolutions.

14 (10) The Government of North Korea's conduct
15 poses an imminent threat to the security of the
16 United States and its allies, to the global economy,
17 to the safety of members of the United States armed
18 forces, to the integrity of the global financial system,
19 to the integrity of global nonproliferation programs,
20 and to the people of North Korea.

21 (11) The Congress seeks, through this legisla-
22 tion, to use nonmilitary means to address this crisis,
23 to provide diplomatic leverage to negotiate necessary
24 changes in North Korea's conduct, and to ease the 25 suffering of the people of North Korea.

9 (a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following find-
10 ings:

11 (1) The Undersecretary of the Treasury for 12 Terrorism and Financial Intelligence, who is respon-
13 sible for safeguarding the financial system against il-
14 licit use, money laundering, terrorist financing, and 15 the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, has 16 repeatedly expressed concern about North Korea's
17 misuse of the international financial system as fol-
18 lows:

19 (A) In 2006, the Undersecretary stated
20 that, given North Korea's "counterfeiting of 21 U.S. currency, narcotics trafficking and use of 22 accounts worldwide to conduct proliferation-re-
23 lated transactions, the line between illicit and 24 licit North Korean money is nearly invisible"
25 and urged financial institutions worldwide to

1 “think carefully about the risks of doing any
2 North Korea-related business.”.

3 (B) In 2011, the Undersecretary stated
4 that “North Korea remains intent on engaging 5 in proliferation, selling arms as well as bringing 6 in material,” and was “aggressively pursuing
7 the effort to establish front companies.”.

8 (C) In 2013, the Undersecretary stated, in 9 reference to North Korea’s distribution of high-
10 quality counterfeit United States currency, that

14 would soon introduce new currency with im-
15 proved security features to protect against 16 counterfeiting by the Government of North
17 Korea.

18 (2) The Financial Action Task Force, an inter-

12 contribute to activities prohibited by applicable
13 United Nations Security Council resolutions;
14 and

15 (C) called on Member States to prohibit
16 North Korean banks from establishing or main-
17 taining correspondent relationships with banks
18 in their jurisdictions, to prevent the provision of 19 financial services, if they have information that

21 these activities could contribute to activities
22 prohibited by an applicable United Nations Se-

13 the financial system against the risks posed by 14 North Korea's willful evasion of sanctions and its il-
15 licit activities; and

16 (3) urges the President to seek the prompt im-
17 plementation by other states of enhanced monitoring
18 and due diligence to prevent North Korea's misuse
19 of the international financial system, including by 20 sharing information about activities, transactions,
21 and property that could contribute to activities sanc-

23 resolutions, or to the evasion of sanctions.

24 (c) DETERMINATIONS REGARDING NORTH KOREA.—

1 (1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the Treas-

7 (2) all states and jurisdictions share a common
8 interest in protecting the international financial sys-

12 the world's principal reserve currencies, and the 13 United States and the European Union are pri-
14 marily responsible for the protection of the inter-
15 national financial system from these risks;

16 (4) the cooperation of the People's Republic of 17 China, as North Korea's principal trading partner,

4 (b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-
5 gress that the President should intensify diplomatic ef-

9 tecting the global financial system against risks emanating
10 from North Korea, including—

12 continuation is inconsistent with applicable United
13 Nations Security Council resolutions;

14 (2) the cessation of any financial services to 15 persons, including financial institutions, that present
16 unacceptable risks of facilitating money laundering

H. RES. _____

Urging the Government of Afghanistan, following a successful first round of the presidential election on April 5, 2014, to pursue a transparent, credible, and inclusive run-off presidential election on June 14, 2014, while ensuring the safety of voters, candidates, poll workers, and election observers.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. GRAYSON submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on _____

RESOLUTION

Urging the Government of Afghanistan, following a successful first round of the presidential election on April 5, 2014, to pursue a transparent, credible, and inclusive run-off presidential election on June 14, 2014, while ensuring the safety of voters, candidates, poll workers, and election observers.

Whereas on April 5, 2014, the Government of Afghanistan held the first round of the presidential election in which voter participation was 60 percent;

Whereas on May 15, 2014, Afghanistan's Independent Election Commission (IEC) certified the results, and announced that a run-off election would be held on June 14, 2014, because no candidate received more than 50 percent of the votes;

Whereas on May 14, 2014, the IEC invalidated votes from 331 polling stations and removed them from the final tabulation, based on Electoral Complaints Commission (ECC) decisions;

Whereas there have been widespread reports of voter and election monitor intimidation, including the killing of members of the National Democratic Institute (NDI) during an attack at the Serena Hotel in Kabul on March 20, 2014, as well as attempts to bribe members of the IEC, the ECC, and other election monitoring organizations;

Whereas investigations by the ECC, and its coordination with the IEC, have not been conducted in a transparent manner;

Whereas 17 members of the Afghanistan National Security Forces (ANSF) were killed while supporting the April 5, 2014, elections;

Whereas United States and coalition armed forces have greatly contributed to the stability and security of Afghanistan at a considerable personal sacrifice; and

Whereas the United States has contributed more than $200,000,000 toward the 2014 Afghan presidential election: Now, therefore, be it

1 Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

2 (1) commends the Government of Afghanistan
3 for holding a successful first round of the presi-
4 dential election and expresses strong support for a

1 credible, inclusive, and transparent second round on
2 June 14, 2014;

3 (2) supports the mandate of Afghan electoral
4 bodies such as the Independent Election Commission
5 (IEC) and the Electoral Complaints Commission
6 (ECC) to administer, adjudicate, and manage polls,
7 as well as oversee logistical and technical prepara-
8 tions in a transparent, fair, and credible manner to 9 prevent fraud and misconduct;

10 (3) encourages the Government of Afghanistan
11 to implement measures that will increase voter par-
12 ticipation, particularly among the Afghan female
13 population;

14 (4) recognizes the determination of the Afghan 15 people to exercise their right to vote and determine
16 their country's destiny;

17 (5) urges the Government of Afghanistan to 18 take steps to assure that fraudulent electoral activi-
19 ties do not take place during the runoff;

20 (6) urges the IEC to adopt measures to better
21 mitigate fraud, improve electoral transparency of the 22 polling and counting process, and communicate these 23 measures clearly and consistently to the people of 24 Afghanistan;

1 (7) urges close and continuing communication
2 between the IEC and the Afghanistan National Se-
3 curity Forces (ANSF) to identify and provide secu-4 rity for vulnerable areas of the country during the 5 election period;

6 (8) encourages all elements of Afghan society to 7 refrain from fomenting violence and other disturb-
8 ances in voting areas;

9 (9) urges the ANSF to make every necessary
10 effort to ensure the safety of voters, candidates, poll
11 workers, and election observers;

12 (10) expresses its support for the full participa-
13 tion of Afghan civil society in the election process;

14 (11) recognizes that a democratically-elected
15 government that reflects the will of the Afghan peo-
16 ple would promote the long-term prosperity, sta-
17 bility, and security interests of Afghanistan and its 18 neighbors, its partners in the North Atlantic Treaty
19 Organization International Security Assistance
20 Force, and the United States; and

21 (12) recognizes the sacrifices of United States
22 and coalition armed forces that have contributed,
23 and will continue to contribute, to the security and 24 stability of Afghanistan.

Chairman ROYCE. So without objection all members may have 5 days to submit statements for the record and any extraneous materials on today's items. And after opening remarks by myself and by the ranking member, Eliot Engel, I will be glad to recognize any member seeking recognition to speak on the en bloc items.

So, beginning with our legislation on North Korea. That country remains one of the greatest threats due to the fact that they are developing weapons, and given the attitude of Kim Jong-un, one of the greatest threats not to just the United States but to our allies in Northeast Asia. The dictators of North Korea have repeatedly defied the international community's efforts to dismantle the nuclear program there.

For years, North Korea has repeatedly dangled the promise of nuclear disarmament and dismantlement of their program in order to get existing sanctions eased. It has been 6 years since North Korea walked away from the negotiating table. The only thing that has changed since 2008 is that North Korea is closer to miniaturizing a nuclear warhead. Our North Korea policy, frankly, has been a bipartisan failure. Last year when we held a hearing on North Korea, it had just completed its third nuclear test and it had successfully launched a three-stage intercontinental ballistic missile. Today, reports show that North Korea may soon conduct a fourth nuclear test. The administration says that its North Korea policy remains one of strategic patience.

It is now time for Congress to lead by providing a clear legislative framework for sanctions to deprive Kim Jong-un of his ability to build nuclear weapons and to deprive him of his ability to repress and abuse the North Korean people. The North Korea Sanctions Enforcement Act seeks to apply the same type of pressure that the Treasury Department successfully applied in 2005 when it targeted a small bank in Macau that was complicit in Pyongyang's counterfeiting. This was the bank of Delta Asia. This impact sent a ripple throughout the international financial system. If you will recall, 10 other banks complied once Banco Delta Asia was named, and as a consequence hard currency was cut off from North Korea. It seriously crimped the financing there. It stopped the ability for them to continue their build-up on their missile program. It made it impossible for the dictator there to pay his generals, which is never a good position for a dictator to be in. So this was one of the most effective steps we have taken against North Korea. It lasted in place, as I recall, about 8 months until the State Department brought significant pressure on Treasury, and this was under the Bush administration. State was interested in getting them lifted in the hopes that that would then get North Korea to the table, of course those negotiations proved to be fruitless. And we lost the ability at that time for the one thing that had held in check, the ability of the regime to continue on its program.

This legislation we have with us today enables our Government to go after Kim Jong-un's illicit activities just like we went after organized crime in our own country. And it does so by interdicting shipments and disrupting the flow of money. And these sanctions target North Korea's money laundering. Just as in '05 it was a case of them counterfeiting $100 bills that got us to the point where sanctions were put in place, they are involved in money laundering, they are involved in counterfeiting. Of course they are involved in illicit smuggling and narcotics trafficking, for those who have watched the way in which the regime gets the lion's share of its hard currency. And there is a focus on North Korea's deplorable human rights violations in this legislation by targeting those officials responsible specifically for torture, for the gulags, for the extrajudicial killings that are sadly a fact of life in North Korea today. So this bipartisan piece of legislation has over 135 co-sponsors. It has garnered the support of humanitarian groups worldwide. And humanitarian aid is in no way affected, I should note for the members here.

Second, we go to H.R. 4449, the Human Trafficking Prevention Act, and this seeks to ensure that U.S. personnel overseas are properly equipped to perceive and combat the scourge of human trafficking. Though current law requires that the State Department be trained to identify trafficking victims, it does not prescribe minimum training requirements, this bill does that.

It adds some of these specifics which I think are important, a training course for Department personnel who deal with trafficking issues; trafficking briefings of all the ambassadors and deputy chiefs of mission before they depart to their posts so they know their responsibilities in this regard; annual reminders to personnel regarding key trafficking issues relating to their countries of focus. As you know we have made significant changes in the law and we want to make sure that they are enforcing it.

So let me see if we have some additional notes here. Lastly, we have House Resolution 600, which urges the Government of Afghanistan to pursue a transparent, credible, and inclusive run-off Presidential election. I thank Mr. Grayson of Florida for his work on this timely resolution. Less than 2 months ago, Afghans overwhelmingly flocked to the polls to vote in Presidential and provisional elections.

Now I think this is interesting. More than 7 million Afghan citizens cast a ballot during the first round of voting. That dwarfs the 4.5 million who voted in 2009. Although the April elections were a significant improvement, there is still progress to be made. Numerous electoral complaints led to the invalidation of votes in certain precincts, and just last week, Afghanistan's Independent Election Commission fired poll workers who were accused of voter fraud.

This resolution urges the Government of Afghanistan to lessen the risk of fraud, to improve electoral transparency, to enhance security efforts, and increase voter participation during the upcoming run-off. Importantly, it also recognizes the sacrifices of the members of our armed forces and underscores that this election will contribute to the security and stability interests of both Afghanistan and of the United States. Afghans will finally select a successor to President Karzai on June the 14th. This election offers the chance for a fresh start with a new President and will allow Afghans to create a new and better era.

We now go to Mr. Eliot Engel of New York for his opening comments, the ranking member.

Mr. ENGEL. Mr. Chairman, thank you very much for holding this markup and for again the bipartisan collaboration on the three measures before us today. I would like to begin by commending you for your hard work on the North Korea Sanctions Enforcement Act, and for your longstanding commitment to address the grave threat posed by North Korea. I have been there twice. It doesn't make me an expert, but once you step foot in that country you realize something is terribly wrong.

This bill would broaden U.S. sanctions against those helping sustain the regime in Pyongyang whose crimes against humanity the U.N. Human Rights Office says are, and I quote, "without parallel in the modern world." The North Korean regime is no stranger to sanctions, and it is clear why: Development of nuclear weapons, arms smuggling, transnational crime. To me, however, the brutal repression of the North Korean people, above all, warrants the enactment of this legislation.

With this bill, Congress labels North Korea supporters as equally responsible for the horrors imposed by Kim Jong-un and his cronies on the North Korean people. This measure provides broader and tougher sanctions against North Korea's illicit activities. It gives the President flexibility to use the authorities in this act most effectively, and it carefully avoids any interference with the relief organizations providing food, medicine, and other humanitarian aid to the North Korean people.

That is the irony. The United States has been the strongest and the greatest provider of food and medicine and other humanitarian aid to the North Korean people, while their brutal regime kills their own people and vilifies the United States. This bill is aimed at those few around the world who have chosen to remain morally blind to the crimes of the North Korean State. I urge all of our colleagues to support it.

I want to commend our colleague, Mr. Connolly, who has been relentless in urging passage of this legislation. Indeed, he has been relentless in terms of everything involving the repression in North Korea. He was speaking to me about it, urging us to pass it, working with us on it to help stop the North Korean regime. And I want to publicly thank Mr. Connolly for his strong support and his help with this legislation.

Mr. Chairman, I also support H.R. 4449, a bill introduced by my colleague from New York, Representative Sean Patrick Maloney. His legislation would expand training requirements for Federal Government personnel including employees of the State Department in identifying and preventing human trafficking.

Human trafficking is modern-day slavery and its victims are robbed of their freedom and dignity. This crime spans the globe, driving profits of up to $32 billion a year. Best estimates tell us that as many as 27 million people are victims of human trafficking, many coerced into forced labor or commercial sex with no means of escape.

One of the best ways to stop this crime is to make sure people know it when they see it. This bill would provide comprehensive mandatory training and special briefings on human trafficking for embassy reporting offices, regional bureaus' trafficking in persons coordinators and their superiors. It would also keep our State Department and other Federal Government personnel up to speed on the key problems, threats, methods, and warning signs of human trafficking, specific to their country or post.

Mr. Chairman, we need to remember that people, not policies, are often the first line of defense against modern slavery, and this legislation will better prepare our diplomats and other public servants to spot this crime and take action as they serve at their diplomatic posts abroad. So I urge my colleagues to support this important legislation as well.

And finally, I support a resolution on the Presidential election in Afghanistan that was introduced by our colleague, Representative Grayson. On April 5th, the people of Afghanistan went to the polls. We saw incredible courage that day from the candidates, the poll workers, and all those who have braved countless acts of violence and intimidation because they wanted their voices to be heard.

Afghanistan's Independent Election Commission recently announced that none of the candidates garnered more than 50 percent of the vote, so the Commission scheduled a run-off election for June 14th. The Afghans should be proud of their electoral system, civil society, media, and security forces for carrying out a successful first round of voting. Let me also congratulate the two leading vote recipients, Dr. Abdullah Abdullah, and Dr. Ashraf Ghani.

This run-off represents another step forward for the people of Afghanistan. The future of their country is in their hands. And this resolution conveys, it is critical that this run-off election be credible, inclusive and transparent. The long-term stability, prosperity and security in Afghanistan depend on a democratically-elected government that reflects the will of the Afghan people. So I urge our colleagues to support this resolution as well.

So Mr. Chairman, in closing I would like to again thank you for holding this markup and look forward to working with you to advance all three of these measures.

Chairman ROYCE. Well, thank you, Mr. Engel. I will just ask if any of the members here seek recognition to speak on any of the en bloc amendments.

Mr. Rohrabacher of California?

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman, and let me thank you and the ranking member. Both you and the ranking member have provided such great leadership on this, and the bipartisan positive spirit that now, I think, dominates this committee reflects the hard work and spirit that both of you have given to your job. And you do work really hard at this job, I know. So first to commend both of you on this, and of course I am supportive of all three of the resolutions that have been brought before us.

Just to take one note about North Korea. My father was a Korean War veteran, and over the years I had many talks with him about that particular conflict. I think what is interesting is that battle was 50 years ago. I remember, and I have mentioned that my father told me that he could not imagine that at that time when he was a young man in Korea that we would still have American military personnel stationed in Korea and doing a job, a military job in Korea. None of those guys who fought there felt that this was something that they were going to do to establish an American garrison overseas that would be there forever, and that their job forever would be, and America's job would be, to be deterring action, hostile action on that peninsula.

I would suggest the reason they are still there is because we have not taken those steps that are necessary to bring about a change of regime, if you would like to say, or a change in the situation in North Korea. We in fact over the years have subsidized North Korea. And many of the people in the committee now don't remember those days, I do, in which we were spending millions of dollars providing food and energy to North Korea. That obviously has not worked.

We need to understand that North Korea is a vicious dictatorship and we should be taking the steps that will permit in some way a unification of Korea but under democratic government. And that means that we should be supporting people who will have an impact in North Korea rather than just thinking we will keep our troops there for another 50 years.

Today we celebrate the 25th anniversary of Tiananmen Square. And celebrate, we commemorate, I should say, commemorate Tiananmen Square. We didn't do the right thing there either, and we still have a dictatorship. It was a turning point 25 years ago that we could have sided with the people. And there was no price or penalty that the Chinese Communist regime has paid for this monstrous obliteration of freedom at Tiananmen Square 25 years ago.

Let us note that behind Korea, behind the Government of Korea is the Government of China, the Communist Chinese Party of China. We as a country, we should do more than just think that our policies need to focus on providing a garrison at a point in the world that might be some kind of an area, a volatile area like Korea.

But instead, we should be thinking about the power of liberty and justice and democracy and the ideals that our country was founded upon, and start finding people in those other countries who will ally ourselves with those values and start supporting them. That is the way we can bring about real change and not have to have our troops garrisoning various parts of the world.

We appreciate again your resolutions on Korea, and Mr. Chairman, you have taken such a heartfelt position on this human trafficking, and we know that, and then again Afghanistan. Thank you for those three pieces of hard work on your and Mr. Engel's part today.

Chairman ROYCE. Well, thank you. Like Mr. Engel, I have been in North Korea, and our hearts go out to the people of North Korea in terms of what they have suffered through for the last three generations now of the dictatorship there. And our hope is that that situation will evolve into one where they have some modicum of human rights, some freedoms, some liberty.

And it is our hope that between this legislation and what we passed a few weeks ago with respect to the revamping of the Broadcasting Board of Governors that we might be able to better broadcast into North Korea the types of messaging which might lead to the pressures for a respect for human rights in that country.

The result of how one treats one's own people is also indicative of how a regime will treat its neighbors, and that is one of the great problems for North Korea with respect to the horror of the human rights condition there. For those of us who have talked to those who have escaped out of the gulags, it is a numbing experience to hear people recount to you the types of stories we heard about concentration camps generations ago during the time of the Second World War and predating the War, to know that that happens today on a daily basis in North Korea, I think, is a heavy weight for all of us in the international community who feel some responsibility to try to do something about it to push North Korea in the right direction.

We now go to Mr. Albio Sires from New Jersey.

Mr. SIRES. Mr. Chairman, thank you very much. I just want to express how refreshing it is to have a chairman and a ranking member that work so well together, and all the members. This is truly an atmosphere of bi-partisanship especially against such a leader in the world. And I want to commend the members participating. And all the amendments, I support all three amendments.

But I especially want to recognize my colleague, Congressman Connolly. He has been an outspoken member of this Congress against the North Koreans and their abuses, and his amendment today shows a great deal of sensitivity toward the 2 million Korean families that are in those countries. So I thank you, and I thank my colleague for all his work.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Sires. Any other members seeking recognition?

Mr. Connolly?

Mr. CONNOLLY. Thank you, Mr. Chairman, and I thank you and Mr. Engel for scheduling this markup. We talked on the floor and I really appreciate you scheduling it. I thank you for your kind words, Mr. Engel, and yours as well, Mr. Sires.

This legislation, I think, is an important symbol by the Congress that we are not going to stand idly by and allow the depredations and the unspeakable brutality of a regime that would make George Orwell pause in the systematic suppression of free thought, of freedom of any kind, in creating this system, state system, that has so degraded the human spirit.

And whether it is the development of a nuclear capability or the tact as you said, Mr. Chairman, that their own internal policies clearly reflect their external policies. And we have seen that where they have engaged in provocative activity, they have actually engaged in acts of terrorism and violence against their neighbor in South Korea and others, and we must speak out.

They have actually engaged of course in the—we talk about human trafficking today, legislation, and I also enthusiastically support—but the North Korea regime has actually degraded itself to the point of abducting individuals as part of their policy. And this regime has to fall, and the United States, as I said, must be a beacon of hope and freedom for those who suffer under its oppression.

You mentioned, Mr. Chairman, the gulags in North Korea. It is estimated that as many as 200,000 North Koreans are being held against their will in such gulags. This is something we thought was over with at the end of the Stalin period 60 years ago, and yet here it is, persistent in the 21st century.

And so I think this legislation is important not only for what it does in tightening sanctions against that regime, but in sending the strongest message I hope in a unanimous bipartisan basis by this Congress that we will stand shoulder to shoulder with the people of North Korea in their aspirations and hopes for a freer future.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. And I also want to finally echo the comments of my friend, Mr. Rohrabacher of California. It is such a refreshing and hopeful experience to come to this committee and see how work is conducted in a professional and bipartisan manner. I think it is a model for other committees in the Congress, and I commend you and your staff, Mr. Chairman, a delight to work with. And you, Mr. Engel, and your staff, similarly, a delight to work with. Thank you for your bipartisan leadership.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Connolly. I think that when we speak about the Orwellian system there, the late Christopher Hitchens wrote a piece, "Why Orwell Matters," but I think of all that he has written about totalitarian regimes. His story about his trip into North Korea is one of the most riveting you can read, and the nightmarish conditions there that people struggle under is a reminder that all of us in the international sphere have some personal responsibility to make certain that we do all that we can do to see that some modicum of civilization comes to an area where people are beaten down the way they are in North Korea.

I think Mr. Smith of New Jersey.

Mr. SMITH. Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman, and thank you for bringing to the committee the North Korea Sanctions Enforcement Act of 2014. I think there is a very dangerous propensity both in Congress and at the State Department to think that North Korea is so bad, its violations of human rights so egregious, and its isolation makes it so that people are tempted to do very little or nothing to engage it and to seek to bring light and scrutiny to these horrific abuses that go on each and every day in the past.

Mr. Chairman, I have chaired four hearings on North Korean human rights, and we have actually heard from women who escaped from North Korea into China, only to be trafficked once they got to China. And then when they were forcibly repatriated, they were put into the gulag system, which you called for an important study on, the 200,000-plus people who are tortured in those terrible gulags and many of them have died. When you try to escape North Korea it is considered treasonous, and as a direct result those individuals are often tortured to death.

I also want to thank you for again requiring that there be a comprehensive study about the gulag system. Again, we need to do more. We need to expose more. No tyrannical regime need be forever, and that goes for North Korea as well.

Finally, I want to again thank Dr. King for the good work he has done. He is a former staff director here who has served very admirably and very effectively, but very much in isolation, the Ambassador to North Korea on behalf of human rights with regards to that country. His job has to be as frustrating as it gets. He is not allowed to visit Pyongyang, but he does do a wonderful job trying to keep the issue front and center. And again, he sat right over here on the other side of the aisle as the democratic staff director for a whole lot of years, and let me express my deep respect for his work.

And also we have got to keep obviously Kenneth Bae and his plight, the American who continues to be held in North Korea, and hopefully this kind of legislation will become an additional prod to effectuate his release. So again, thank you Mr. Chairman, and I yield back the balance.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Smith.

We go now to Mr. Grayson of Florida.

Mr. GRAYSON. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. This measure regarding the Afghan election, the second round, is an important one. On May 11, 2013, in Kabul, the U.S. Deputy Secretary of State William Burns said that “a successful political transition is an essential prerequisite for sustainable security. It is vitally important that the election held next April be transparent, credible, and inclusive.”

On July 9, 2013, the United States Senate unanimously agreed to a resolution stating that the Government of Afghanistan is urged “to ensure transparent and credible Presidential and provincial elections in April 2014 by adhering to internationally accepted democratic standards, establishing a transparent electoral process, and ensuring security for voters and candidates.”

In the first round of these elections, voter participation increased from approximately 35 percent in the 2009 Presidential election to almost 60 percent in the election held in April, with the percentage of newly-registered female voters slightly increasing.

The 2009 Afghan Presidential election experienced low female votes due to the insufficient number of female poll workers, and the U.N. Development Programme’s Law and Order Trust Fund for Afghanistan approved the Ministry of Interior request to fund the hiring of 13,000 female election security officers in order to bolster female voter turnout for the recent Presidential election. Yet, 40 out of Afghanistan’s 407 districts still did not have female election staff due to security concerns.

Twenty seven Afghans were killed on election day in 2009, and 17 members of the Afghan National Security Forces were killed over the course of nearly 300 insurgent attacks carried out during the election held a few weeks ago. After the 2009 Presidential election, the Independent Electoral Commission ordered results from 210 polling places be invalidated, and later, after investigating 570 more polling stations quarantined by the IEC, found that all but 18 should be invalidated as well.

In the recent election, 809,349 votes cast for the first Presidential candidate, 165,339 cast for the second Presidential candidate, and 39,555 cast for the third Presidential candidate during the June 2014 election have been invalidated for fraud.

The Independent Electoral Commission has performed behind closed doors instead of in front of international monitors, and information from that Commission was leaked to some candidates and not others. In addition to that, on the evening prior to the 2014 Presidential election until 5 o’clock p.m. on election day, the Government of Afghanistan eliminated text messaging capabilities and this greatly inhibited monitoring efforts by international organizations. The members of the National Democratic Institute were killed in an attack on the Serena Hotel in Kabul on March 20, 2014, causing NDI to remove significant numbers of staff from Afghanistan and spreading fear among other monitors.

It is very important to understand that while some candidates and some campaign staff have proclaimed that, should their opponents prevail, Afghanistan will be a less secure nation in which more civilians die, therefore creating a climate which is not conducive to democratic transition, our resolution seeks to address these problems and to solve these problems in meaningful ways.

In advance of the Presidential election now to be held off the schedule for June 14th, we commend the Afghan people for completing the first round of a Presidential election while at the same time urging them toward a credible, inclusive, and transparent second round. Great lengths were taken in drafting this measure to ensure that it focused solely on the pending election, an event on which the House of Representatives has yet to comment.

This measure does not delve into such issues as the appropriate number of coalition forces in Afghanistan. Instead, what it does simply is commend the Afghan people simply for completing the first round of elections, albeit in a somewhat flawed fashion, and supporting that the Commission is responsible for ensuring transparent and fair voting.

We encourage the Government of Afghanistan to pursue measures that will increase female voter participation. We urge the Government of Afghanistan to take all necessary steps to combat fraud during the election, including preserving the text messaging capabilities that the visitors and observers find so essential to be able perform their functions properly. And we recognize the important role that Afghan National Security Forces, NATO forces, and currently, American forces have had and will have ensuring safety on voting day.

Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Grayson. We go now to Ms. Tulsi Gabbard of Hawaii.

Ms. GABBARD. Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I am in support of all three of the items that we are marking up today, but want to speak very briefly with connection to H.R. 1771, the North Korean Sanctions Enforcement Act. And like my colleagues, thank you and our ranking member for your leadership on this, and especially your remarks that opened up this conversation today.

Much has been said very eloquently about the human rights violations that are occurring in North Korea, but specifically, the fact that strategic patience, the time for that has come and gone. We can talk about the threat that North Korea has to the region that it is one of the primary causes of instability within the Asia Pacific region.

I was there in Japan, South Korea, and China last month, and heard in each of those three places, both from our military as well as folks on the ground there that the threat that North Korea continues to provide is one of the most destabilizing factors, inhibiting economic growth and opportunity in the region. But this is also something that hits very close to home.

You mentioned the intercontinental ballistic missile tests, the continued growing capabilities of North Korea, and how every time we go through this cycle of threats and then some kind of talk of negotiations and finding a peaceful path through this, which ideally is what we all would like, North Korea's capabilities continue to grow.

It is a great disservice to our country when North Korea makes threats that we have people here at home saying they are not close enough or their threats are not serious or they are not actually threatening the United States. They are actually threatening us very directly. States like mine in Hawaii do fall within the range of the ICBMs that they are developing.

So when we talk about the need for stronger sanctions, the need to look back to the hard currency sanctions that have worked in the past, this is something that is very real. And it is very real to American citizens, it is very real to the military assets that we have in our own country, and is critical for our own national security and the safety of our people that we take this seriously and understand that this is a threat that is urgent today, not something that we can continue to wait and be patient on to deal with in the future.

So I appreciate your leadership and your hard and thoughtful work on this, and on behalf of the people of my State of Hawaii, extend my gratitude. Thank you very much.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Ms. Gabbard. We are going to go now to Mr. Ted Poe, Judge Ted Poe of Texas.

Mr. POE. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Thank you for bringing all of these bills before the committee today. I would like to speak specifically on H.R. 4449, the Trafficking Prevention Act, by Mr. Maloney.

This requires training of State Department officials, and I wanted to emphasize the importance of the training to recognize especially overseas victims that are trafficked into the United States, specifically minor children: Not only that we recognize who those children are, but we also need to have training. State Department officials need to have training on recognizing the problem of the demand, whether that demand occurs by Americans or someone else overseas for this scourge of human trafficking.

So this is a good piece of legislation. Education and training on human trafficking is critical for us on a worldwide basis to stop this criminal conduct, this scourge, but it also includes training to recognize the problem and the issue of the demand sector. And with that I will yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Poe. We go now Mr. Joaquin Castro of Texas.

Mr. CASTRO. Thank you, Mr. Chairman, and I want to thank you and Ranking Member Engel for including my amendment to H.R. 1771 in the en bloc package.

Recently a U.N. panel recommended that the international community must significantly improve enforcement of existing resolutions particularly relating to cargo inspections at air and sea ports. Recognizing that there are enforcement gaps, my amendment urges the United States to strengthen the capacity of responsible nations to monitor and intercept shipments to and from North Korea that provide them cash as well as technology and material for its nuclear and ballistic missiles program.

I encourage my colleagues of course to support the amendment and I thank you all for your support. I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Castro. Hearing no further requests for recognition, the question occurs on the items considered en bloc. All those in favor say aye.

All those opposed, no.

In the opinion of the Chair the ayes have it. The measures are considered en bloc. That would be H.R. 1771, H.R. 4449, and House Resolution 600. They are agreed to as amended, and without objection each of the measures as amended is ordered favorably reported as a single amendment in the nature of a substitute. Staff is directed to make any technical and conforming changes, and that concludes business for today.

I want to thank our ranking member, Eliot Engel, and all of our committee members for their contributions and for their assistance, and this committee is adjourned.

[Whereupon, at 10:45 a.m., the committee was adjourned.]

Statement for the Record

Submitted by the Honorable Gerald E. Connolly

I would like to thank Chairman Royce and Ranking Member Engel for bringing H.R. 1771, the North Korea Sanctions Enforcement Act of 2014, to the Full Committee for markup. This legislation, which I am pleased to cosponsor, provides us with the opportunity to communicate that our Committee and the Congress is resolved to hold North Korea accountable for its brutality against its people and the erratic and dangerous manner in which it conducts itself on the world stage.

This comprehensive sanctions legislation addresses money laundering, currency counterfeiting, the violation of UN Security Council resolutions and financial restrictions, and various other offenses committed by North Korea. It also addresses human rights abuses and promotes unrestricted communications to the citizens of North Korea.

The sanctions are warranted, as North Korea is a reckless international actor that has amassed a litany of violations and abuses of international law. It continues to develop a nuclear weapons program in defiance of the United Nations Security Council and worldwide condemnation. North Korea supports the development of Iranian missile technology and nuclear capabilities. Hamas and Hezbollah, both designated foreign terrorist organizations by the United States, receive missile technology and training from North Korea that they have used to attack Israel, an ally of the United States. United Nations Security Council resolutions deterring missile tests and launches are routinely flouted. It is clear that a pattern of behavior has developed in North Korea that should be concerning to all in the international community.

In addition to the legislation before us today, I also am an original cosponsor of H.R. 673, the North Korea Sanctions and Diplomatic Nonrecognition Act of 2013. H.R. 673 calls on the Secretary of State to redesignate North Korea as a state sponsor of terrorism and to continue to withhold formal diplomatic recognition of the Kim Jong Un regime. Both pieces of legislation send a strong and clear message to North Korea that its international transgressions are not without consequence. The United States will not and cannot allow an authoritarian regime to operate with impunity and threaten our national security and the security of our allies.

Of course, the United States and international community should not only address the aggression North Korea has projected outward. The atrocities committed inside the borders of North Korea are equally disturbing and deserving of condemnation. The status of human rights seems to have regressed under Kim Jong Un. A recent United Nations report recounts, in horrifying detail, the “offenses” which land individuals in labor camps; including misspelling the name of Kim Jong Il. Deplorable conditions persist in the nation’s system of gulags that reports say contain 200,000 prisoners. People seeking refuge from the oppressive regime must disregard public executions used to intimidate the populace and brave a “shoot to kill” threat levied against citizens attempting to cross the border with China.

Family reunifications between South Korean families and their loved ones behind the DMZ remain limited to fleeting reunions. I thank the Chairman and Committee staff for working with me on an amendment that makes the suspension of sanctions in this legislation conditional on North Korea making significant progress in planning for unrestricted family reunification meetings, including for those individuals among the two-million strong Korean-American community who maintain family ties with relatives in North Korea.

Pyongyang must pay, and the lives of North Koreans must be improved. I applaud this legislation for levying extensive sanctions against bad actors in the North Korean saga, while recognizing the urgency of humanitarian, medical and food assistance for North Korean citizens. Rest assured that no such reprieve is offered by Pyongyang. Again, I commend my colleagues for finding common ground on North Korea sanctions and for taking decisive action against this despotic regime.

H.R. 4449, To amend the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 to expand the training for Federal Government personnel related to trafficking in persons, and for other purposes.

H.R. 4449, the Human Trafficking Prevention Act codifies specific minimum training requirements for certain State Department employees who would be in a position to address trafficking issues and assist trafficking victims. I support sensible steps our government can take to ensure that we are combatting human trafficking and not complicit in this abhorrent practice. I authored legislation that was included in the FY2013 National Defense Authorization Act to address the serious problem of human trafficking by some government contractors and subcontractors operating overseas. The End Trafficking in Government Contracting Act enhanced and expanded on President Obama's Executive Order on Human Trafficking issued in September 2012. The President was absolutely correct in stating that the fight against human trafficking is one of the great human rights causes of our time, and I am glad our government employees on the front line of our diplomatic missions abroad will be well-prepared to join this fight.

H. Res. 600, Urging the Government of Afghanistan, following a successful first round of the presidential election on April 5, 2014, to pursue a transparent, credible, and inclusive run-off presidential election on June 14, 2014, while ensuring the safety of voters, candidates, poll workers, and election observers.

As the United States winds down its involvement in Afghanistan, the most concrete measure the Government of Afghanistan can take to support a democratic transition is the administration of free, fair and transparent elections. H. Res 600 prescribes specific policies Afghanistan can adopt to ensure that the run-off presidential election on June 14, 2014 meets international election standards. A democratically-elected government will be vital to the long-term stability of Afghanistan and will engender the support of the people of Afghanistan. With the observance of Memorial Day this past weekend, it also pays a timely homage to the sacrifice of U.S. and coalition forces. Over 2,100 American soldiers made the ultimate sacrifice while promoting the security interests of the United States and maintaining the stability of Afghanistan. We honor their service and sacrifice by promoting abroad the very freedoms they fought to defend.
